Film overview:

'Fraidward(s)' is a digital film. It is one of two videos in a series called 'mouthfuls'. The film consists of one shot which lasts for 9 minutes. The frame of the video is a close crop of someone's mouth. Throughout the film, the mouth explores the word 'fraidward'. 'Fraidward' is a new word created by a participant in a workshop held by the artist Lottie Sadd. The speaker takes time vocalising each letter of this word, and the different mouth shapes the word requires. The sounds the speaker's mouth makes are elongated and exaggerated.

00:00

A closed mouth twitches, purses lips, bites lip. Flashes of teeth are visible.
